Spearhead in Peace As in War By MAJ. GEN. RODERICK R. ALLEN, USA Commanding General, 3d Army Division

FAMED as the "Spearhead" Division of the European Theater of Operations during the war, the 3d Armored Division is carving out a new path of achievement in its role of a training com-mand. In the fif-teen months trainees.

Maj. Gen. Allen

The designation "Third Armored" gave to the trainees a "New Look" by endowing them with the tradition and heritage of a famous combat division of World War II. An improved esprit was fostered which inspired higher standards, greater effort and better accomplishment. Officers, enlisted cadre and trainees could be proud of their assignment. Each man had a goal and the footstep of a war hero in which to tread. Each battle streamer and each standard became the beacon this new "Spearheader" could follow.

Cadre, both officer and enlisted, were imbued with the spirit that the peacetime mission of training was just as important as the former mission of fighting the war. Four principles or guides were instituted for the trainer cadre. They are:

1. "Know Your Job"—Know it so weld."

1. "Know Your Job"—Know it so well that you imbue others with your enthusiasm and knowledge.

2. "Explain"—Explain the whys and wherefores of all things military so that, when the time for obedience without explanation comes, the man will be ready to obey without question.

"Example"—Set the example in all things. Look the best; act the best; be the best; and your men will reflect your example.
"Decent Human Relations"—Treat your men on a plane of decent human relations, as individuals, and not as sticks, stones or bundles of cordwood.

Reception, training, and shipping procedures were modernized and revitalized to eliminate the "Hurry up and wait." The trainee steps off the train, where he is met by personnel from the receiving unit, designated as the 45th Armored Medical Battalion. If he is hungry, he is whisked in buses to a waiting dining hall and his first Army meal. After his hunger is satisfied he is oriented concerning his present status and future expectations. Then he receives a raincoat, toilet ar-

Academy Needs of All Services to be Studied

Services to be Studied

Secretary of Defense James Forrestal signed a directive this week authorizing the Air Force to commission up to 7 per cent of the 1949 Naval Academy graduates and up to 40 per cent of the 1949 Military Academy graduates.

At the same time, he asked the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force for comment on a proposal to create a board to study the requirements of all services for Academy graduates, including the question of establishing an Air Force Academy.

In the directive, Secretary Forrestal said the percentage quotas of those in the graduating classes at West Point and Annapolis who could volunteer for Air Force commissions were not intended as a precedent for future directives on the same subject, but were to apply to the a precedent for future directives on the same subject, but were to apply to the current fiscal year only.

It is recalled that an earlier proposal to have members of the U. S. Naval Academy commissioned in the Air Force was turned down by Air Force Secretary W. Stuart Symington, who said that the Navy's proposed charges were too high. Secretary Forrestal ordered that the Air Force contribute financial support to the budgets of the two academies in proportion to the percentage of graduates assigned to the Air Force.

The texts of the memorandum and the directive follow:

"The attached directive is promulgated as the immediate solution of a subject which has been under consideration for many months. I view it as an interim step in the right direction.

Adm. King Changes Views

Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, USN, has changed his mind about certain aspects of the inquiry into the Japanese sneak-attack on Pearl Harbor, according to a letter made public this week by the Navy Department.

In the letter, addressed to Secretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan on 14 July 1948, and just made public this week, Admiral King requested that his original endorsement on the records of proceedings of the Court of Inquiry into the attack he modified. He also saked Mr. attack, be modified. He also asked Mr. Sullivan to approve his recommendation that Admiral Harold A. Stark, who was Chief of Naval Operations at the time of the attacks, be awarded a second Distinguished Service Medal.

At the time of the original endorsement, Admiral King stated that the conduct of Admiral Stark and Admiral Husband E. Kimmel (the other principal figure involved) "indicate lack of the superior judgment necessary for exe cising command commensurate wit their rank and their assigned duties." E has now informed the Navy Secretary that, had he expressed himself "more accurately at the time," that section of the endorsement would read: "The derelictions on the part of Admiral Stark and Admiral Kimmel were those of omission rather than of commission—errors of judgment as distinguished from culpable inefficiency."

The text of the letter, which has been filed with the record of the proceedings, and which has been made a part of the official records of Admirals Stark and Kimmel, is as follows:

"My dear Mr. Secretary:

"My dear Mr. Secretary:

"After giving the matter the most careful consideration, I have concluded that certain portions of my endorsement on the record of proceedings of the Court of Inquiry into the Pearl Harbor attack (ordered 13 June 1944. Admiral Orin G. Murfin, U.S.N., Ret., President) stand out as not being in accord with the realities of the situation existing when I signed it. The purpose of this letter is to terminate, in so far as is possible at this time, any continuing injustices which may have resulted from that endorsement. "The portions of the endorsement to which I refer are as follows:

"6. The derelictions on the part of Admiral Stark and Admiral Kimmel were faults of omission rather than faults of commission. In the case in question, they indicate lack of the superior judgment necessary for exercising command commensurate with their and their assigned duties, rather, than

In the case in question, they indicate lack of the superior judgment necessary for exercising command commensurate with their rank and their assigned duties, rather than culpable inefficiency.

"T. Since trial by general court martial is not warranted by the evidence adduced, appropriate administrative action would appear to be the relegation of both of these officers to positions in which lack of superior judgment may not result in future errors."

"Considering that Admiral Stark had occupied the most important post in European waters, by order of President Roosevelt, for the better part of three years immediately preceding the date of the endorsement, that he remained in that post during the entire war and until he was ordered to duty in the Navy Department in late 1945, and that his performance of duty in high office during that period was in all respects outstanding, the suggestion that he be relegated to a subordinate position in which superior judgment would not be required seems to me now to have been singularly inappropriate, I therefore request that this letter be filed with the record to show that if I were writing the endorsement today, or had expressed myself more accurately at the time, the part of Admiral Stark and Admiral Kimmel were those of trative action."

"May I also invite attention to the point that Admiral Stark was awarded his first Distinguished Service Medal (Navy) for his work as Chief of Naval Operations up to March 1942. It is altogether fitting that he should be similarly rewarded for his good work in the European Theater and I wish to ask the Secretary to approve of my recommendation of August 1945 for a second Distinguished Service Medal (Navy) for Admiral Harold R. Stark, U. S. Navy.

Congressmen May Inspect

Secretary of Defense James Forrestal has invited members of the Armed Services Committees of the House and Senate to fly to Europe for a first-hand inspection of the Berlin airlift.

It is expected that a group of Representatives will depart Monday for a 10-day inspection trip, but details as to those making the trip were not available as the Army and Navy Journal went to press.

Whether a similar group from the Senate also would fly to Europe also had not been established. Committee clerks were reported to have had a somewhat difficult time contacting members during the carly part of the week. early part of the week.

Study Censorship Plan

Apparently concerned about repercus-sions from the "Battle of the Smiths" and the resulting public confusion, Secretary of Defense James Forrestal has un-der study a plan which would require re-tired officers of all Services to submit articles and speeches for approval.

But at the present time, it does not appear that Secretary Forrestal will issue such an order. Aides say that he wants first to ascertain whether enforcement of this ruling would be desirable and secondly whether it would be practicable.

The issue came to the fore with publication of articles concerning the heated dispute between Army Maj. Gen. Ralph M. Smith and Marine Corps Lt. Gen. Holland Smith, who relieved the former of ficer of a command at Saipan in June

Late this week, Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall permitted Army records relating to the Saipan episode to be opened. Army spokesmen main-tain that the Marine Corps version of the action was "misinformed" and "distorted, malicious and misleading.'

Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, who commanded Army troops in the Pacific, is quoted as saying that even before the Tarawa battle in 1943, he had "formed the opinion that Holland Smith lacked the necessary training and qualifications to exercise the high command of Army troops in battle."

Meantime, however, Navy Department records concerning Saipan have not yet been made available. General Holland Smith has requested that they be made

Reserve and Nat. Gd. Conference

Two critical issues confronted the General Staff Committee on National Guard and Reserve Policy early this week and today members were reported still in session discussing the Gray Board Report and the President's 15 Oct. Executive Order on the "Organization of the Reserve Units of the Armed February 15.

Units of the Armed Forces,"
Originally the meeting, which began 8
Nov., was to be concerned primarily with an analysis and report on the controversial Gray Board document, but necessity for rapid action on the President's order broadened the agenda.

The President ordered that Secretary of Defense James Forrestal report to him concerning the status of civilian components within 60 days.

Lt. Gen. Raymond S. McLain, Army Chief of Information, a former National Guard officer and a member of the Gray Board, is understood to have been one of the first speakers before the committee early this week. He was slated to review the conclusions of the Gray Board.

Another early speaker was Rear Adm. Ralph S. Riggs, USN, who was scheduled to report on "Organization and Operation of the Naval Respress" to report on "Organiza of the Naval Reserves.

of the Naval Reserves."

The group was also to meet with Secretary of Army Kenneth C. Royall and General Omar N. Bradley, Chief of Staff, to discuss the President's order.

Following talks by Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, who reviewed "The Strategic Picture," and Maj. Gen. Kenneth F. Cramer and Brig. Gen. Wendell Westover, who reported respectively on the National reported, respectively, on the National Guard and the Organized Reserve Corps, the committee planned to discuss during the last three days of the week matters pertaining to the Gray Board study.

The group is expected to submit its con-clusions to Secretary Royall within the immediate future.

Warrant Officer Selections

A possibility that the names of newly-selected warrant officers of the Army and Air Force would be made available within two weeks was voiced yesterday by officials in close contact with members of the joint selection board.

It had been hoped that the names of the successful warrant officer candidates

—possibly as many as 6,000 for the Army and Air Force—would be ready for publication by 15 Nov. However, a slight delay reported, with completion of the gi-ntic selection task expected before the end of the month.

declared this week.

"The desired results cannot be achieved by military medicine alone but only by iplaying its part in intimate association with workers in every field of civilian medicine," General Bliss told delegates to the annual meting of the Association of Military Surgeons at San Antonio, Tex. General Bliss said "good health, both mental and physical has never been more needed than at this period. It is needed in all countries and in these times of Atomic Energy—astoundingly rapid communication by airplane and by radio—the isolation in one land of mental or physical ill health is impossible."

the isolation in one land of mental or physical ill health is impossible."

The Surgeon General added:

"An association of minds devoted to research and activity in combating current mental and physical ill-health is a crying demand of the present.

"It is equally important to supply and give to so many peoples everywhere—peoples who have almost lost hope—the simple medical care and treatment they need and with this care some restoration of their faith in human dignity.

"The men whom this Association represents—men of all Nations whose lives are devoted to the care of others and men whose lives are singularly devoted to the broadest aspects of large scale human welfare—are in a position to accept this challenge.

"It is this type of war—war against disease—war for good mental and physical health—it is this type of war that the wold needs today. This would be a popular war and in winning this war for health we would gain our greatest assurance for a real world peace."

in a Service other than the one from which he was discharged, is still hanging fire. To secure the proper pattern in such matters, Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall requested a decision under date of 16 March 1948.

Section 305 of the National Security Act continues the law that provides for the payment of a reenlistment bonus when a serviceman resulting in the Service from payment of a reenlistment bonus when a serviceman reenlists in the Service from which he is being discharged at the end of an enlistment. Since the enactment of the National Security Act, the Air Force has become a separate entity and the decision rests on the turn of whether, without an enabling Act, the bonus may be paid to Army men who, on termination of enlistment, want to enlist in the Air Force, or vice versa. enlistment, want t Force, or vice versa.

Although existing law was enacted to encourage personnel to reenlist in the branch in which originally enlisted, it is believed that legislation will be intro-duced during the next Congress authoriz-ing recognition for retirement purposes of service in any branch, and recognition for reenlistment bonus purposes, of service in any branch of the Armed Forces, Army, Navy, Air Force or Marine Corps, when reenlisting in some other branch immedi-ately on discharge, or within a specified period.

In the contemporary world of "nuclear giants and ethical infants," Americans must guard against disillusionment and impatience, General Omar N. Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, said this week.

Army Unier of Staff, said this week.

He told an Armistice Day Luncheon at Boston that "new weapons have made the risk of war a suicidal hazard" and said
"modern war visits destruction on the victor and vanquished alike."

Therefore, warned General Bradley,
"any nation which does not exert its vigor, wealth and armed strength in the avoid-wealth and armed strength in the avoid-ance of conflict before it strikes, shall en-danger its survival."

Describing Armistice Day as "our day of conscience . . . a symbol of failure . . . a reminder that we won a war and lost a peace," General Bradley said that time can be for us "if diligence in our search for agreement equals the vigilance with which we prepare for a storm.

"It can be against us if disillusionment weakens our faith in discussion—or if our vigilance corrodes while we wait."

our vigilance corrodes while we wait."
"Disillusionment is always the enemy of peace. And today—as after World War I—disillusionment can come from expecting too much, too easily, too soon. In our impatience we must never forget that fundamental differences have divided this world; they allow no swift, no cheap, no easy solutions.
"While as a prudent people we must prepare ourselves to encounter what we may be unable to prevent, we nevertheless must never surrender ourselves to the certainty of that encounter.

encounter.

"For if we say there is no good in arguing with what must inevitably come then we shall be left with no choice but to create a garrison state and empty our wealth into arms. The burden of long-term total preparedness for some indefinite but inevitable war could not help but crush the freedom we prize. It would leave the American people soft victims for bloodless aggression."

As a result of the creation of "mon-

As a result of the creation of "mon-strous weapons," General Bradley said that "humanity is in danger of being trapped in this world by its moral adoles-cents." He continued:

that "humanity is in danger of being trapped in this world by its moral adolescents." He continued:

"Our knowledge of science has clearly outstripped our capacity to control it. We have too many men of science; too few men of God. We have grasped the mystery of the atom and rejected the Sermon on the Mount. Man is stumbling blindly through a spiritual darkness while toying with the precarious secrets of life and death. The world has achieved brilliance without wisdom, power without conscience. Ours is a world of nuclear giants and ethical infants. We know more about war than we know about ipeace, more about killing than we know about living.

"This is our twentieth century's claim to distinction and to progress.

"In our concentration on the tactics of strength and resourcefulness which have been used in the contest for blockaded Berlin, we must not forget that we are also engaged in a long-range conflict of ideas. Democracy can withstand ideological attacks if democracy will provide earnestly and liberally for the welfare of its people. To defend democracy against attack, men must value freedom. And to value freedom they must benefit by it in happler and more secure lives for their wives and their children.

"Throughout this period of tension in which we live, the American people must demonstrate conclusively to all other peoples of the world that democracy not only guarantees his economic dignity and progress as well. To practice freedom and make it work, we must cherish the individual, we must provide him the opportunities for reward and impress upon him the responsibilities a free man bears to the society in which he lives.

"The American people cannot abdicate in this present struggle and leave the problem to their armed forces.

"For this is not a test of combat strength but a contest of resolution. It is dependent less upon military strength and more upon human strength, faith and fortitude among such citizens as you. If we are to combat communism, we cannot oppose it with anticommunism, we cannot oppos

Honor Gen. Pershing

At Arlington Cemetery the thirtieth anniversary of the Armistice that brought an end to hostilities in World War I was officially observed on Thursday with ceremonies at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and with pilgrimages to the grave of General of the Armies Lehn I. Possehler.

Unknown Soldier and with pilgrimages to the grave of General of the Armies John J. Pershing.

Wreaths were placed at the Unknown Soldier's tomb by a military aid to the President and by representatives of veterans' and patriotic organizations.

Led by Col. George H. Maines, director, of the Americanism Commission, representatives of the various veterans' organizations placed wreaths on the grave of General Pershing. This ceremony was particularly impressive as it was the first Armistice Day since his death and for the first time he shared with the Unknown Soldier of his command the homage of his comrades of World War I.

It was recalled that in his lifetime, whenever his health permitted, he accompanied the President each year to the Armistice Day ceremonies at Arlington.

The Virginia Department of the American Legion conducted a special pilgrimage to General Pershing's grave, escorted by a 125-man Guard of Honor from Arlington County posts. The General had been Honorary National Commander of the American Legion. At the graveside memorial services Past National Commander Paul S. Griffith paid tribute to General Pershing.

"Paragraph 13, Circular 120—AF Letter 75-43, Departments of the Army and the Air Force, 1948, is rescinded and the following substituted therefor:

"13. a. Each automobile owner will be advised that, prior to the delivery of his automobile to the port, all items easily stolen or damaged, such as hubcaps, radios, mirrors, tools, and similar articles, should be removed and packed in a substantial box. This box may be stowed in the vehicle. To avoid damage, vehicle and trunk and glove comparements will be left unlocked.

"b. Effective immediately, all privately owned automobiles of Department of the Army and Department of the Air Force members and employees, which are accepted for oversea shipment by United States ports of emoatkation, shall be equipped with a lock type gasoline tank cap, Those vehicles already accepted by United States ports or whose owners are in oversea commands, may be shipped without such caps being obtained. For such vehicles, and for cars already in oversea commands, the Army and Air Force Exchange Service is taking action to provide such caps through local exchanges. Upon such items becoming available in oversea commander require that all such privately owned automobiles be so equipped."

Secy. Royall Speaks

The citizens of the United States, irrespective of politics, "stand as a united na-tion for an adequate National Defense and for a wise and fair foreign policy."

This was the Armistice Day statement of Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall, He spoke before the World Peace Luncheon at Birmingham, Ala.

Secretary Royall said the great political campaign was "an eye-opener to the totalitarian nations of the world—at least to such of their citizens as were permitted to know the facts. The election was a great demonstration of American democracy," he said.

Secretary Royall added:

"As we review the international situation today, we can be certain of several things. We know that there exists in the world, nations who would supplant our democracy with Communism. We know that our strength—spiritual, moral and military—stands between these totalitarian countries and the accomplishment of their aims.

ween these totalitarian countries and the accomplishment of their aims.

"These are facts that we seemed to have forgotten in the past. But it is increasingly evident that we have learned our lessom—that we are looking toward tomorrow with concern instead of with complacence. It is abundantly clear that America feels the weight of its responsibility—and that our nation intends to exercise a unit of purpose, without which our concern and our consciousness of responsibility would be feckless indeed.

"Within the last few days our great President, Harry S. Truman, has declared that all his efforts 'will be devoted to the cause of peace in the world and the prosperity and happiness of our reople here at home.' And to this he added 'I want every single one of you to help me carry out that tremendous responsibility.' He means those words, and he wants and needs that help.

"It is our responsibility to give him that help—to present a united front in all efforts for peace and security for our country. This responsibility is not that of a few. It rests equally on the shoulders of all our people—industrialist and worker, farmer, housewife, and professional and business man—on all who treasure freedom and want to keep America truly American. In a democracy like ours, neither that government nor any of its branches can for long rise above the will of the people.

"On this day when we meet to commemo-

the people.

"On this day when we meet to commemorate our great wars—and to revere those who gave their lives for the safety of our country—let us all fix upon a course of fairness, firmness, firepower and faith. Let us be steadfast in our determination that by this course peace will be preserved for the America of today and for the America of tomorrow."

The Leaders' Course receives the potential leaders and puts them through a rigorous six week course designed to help them to develop their abilities to instruct, train, and if necessary, lead other men in combat. This training innovation fostered by Army Field Forces deserves to be recognized as one of the outstanding advancements in modern Army training. The potential leader receives instruction in combat problems in practical field exercises; methods of instruction in actual presentation of Instruction to other students; leadership techniques and solution to leaders' problems by actually solving problems. This is followed by practical work in a student company, actorwed after the upper design. iems by actually solving problems. Army Field Forces directed that the lessons which the Division had learned through experience and trial and error be passed on to other training divisions.
This was done in a series of "Indoctrination" periods held in the Third Armored Division area at Fort Knox, Kentucky, during the months of July and August, for the Commanding Generals of the new training divisions, established divisions, major units, and their staffs, and by sending an "Indoctrination Team" composed of key officers and enlisted men to visit the cadre of all divisions and units training troops. This team traveled over 12,000 miles and held conferences with the majority of trainer personnel of these units.
The team's mission was not to tell how the training mission should be done but to present the methods used by the Third Armored Division for the information and guidance of all trainer personnel.

Everything within the Division is directed toward the successful completion of the training mission. Subordinate units are relieved of personnel and administrative procedures to the maximum

Liquid Shoe Polish

Shoes take on a mirror-like luster when you use Dyanshine, the high-speed polish that's so easy to apply. It makes shoes sparkle in a jiffy so you can look your best on the "hut-hut." G.I. scuffs and scratches "get lost" because Dyanshine colors as it polishes. Dyanshine's more economical, too. The shine lasts longer and a bottle goes farther . . . costs as little as 1/2 cent a shine when you apply as directed. BARTON MANUFACTURING CO., ST. LOUIS 15, MO.

Cold Weather "War"

Argentia, Newfoundland, was the scene this week of a large-scale cold weather operation conducted by ships, submarines and air squadrons of the Navy's Second Task Floot Task Fleet

Headed by the Navy's lone active bat-tleship, the 45,000-ton Missouri, the fleet began moving into the Northern Atlantic waters early last week. The first phase of the operation, utilizing an Amphibious Attack Force, commanded by Rear Adm. J. E. Welchel, took place en route. The Attack Force, a convoy for the purposes of the problem, was attacked by "enemys submarines under the command of Rear Adm. J. Commanded by First Lt. J. S. Banks, USMC, a detachment of 59 Marines re-ceived commendation for their participation in the Point Barrow supply expedition in Alaska.

The 59 Marines were detached from 1st
Amphibian Tractor Batt., 1st Marine Division, at Camp Pendleton, Calif., to assist vision, at camp Pendicton, Calit., to assist in the expedition on board the USS Wash-burn, one of the Pacific Fleet's attack transports. Capt. B. C. Allen, commanding officer of the Washburn, delivered the commendation and expressed the high praise and admiration of the representa-tives of the contractors and the Army in Alacke

Marine Corps Equipment Board The Marine Corps Equipment Board at the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, is helping to keep the Marines combat-ready. Headed by Brig. Gen. Louis R. Jones, the board backs up the men with the guns

by developing testing and perfecting the equipment employed by landing forces in amphibious operations. One of its main jobs is to prevent any flascos from new equipment failing in actual field or com-bat operations.

equipment failing in actual field or combat operations.

Among the types of equipment being tested or developed by the board are combat weapons, new types of electronics and signal communications equipment, and amphibious vehicles and the accessory equipment for moving them across soft beachheads, swamps, and undeveloped terrain.

Navigation Training Ship

A C-54 Skymaster four-engine transport, specially modified for the USAF Bombardment School and the only one of its type in existence, took off from Mather Air Force Base, Calif., 5 Nov., on its first training flight. Brig. Gen. Carl B. McDaniel, commanding general of the USAF Bombardment School, was at the controls as first pilot. controls as first pilot.

The aircraft was delivered to Mather recently from the Middletown Air Materiel Area, Pa., where navigation training equipment had been installed according to the specifications of the Bombardment School's Department of Training Research and Development.

Research and Development.

The training ship is equipped with 21 student positions, each including table, chair, safety belt and lamp. For every two positions a navigation instrument panel is installed, containing an altimeter and gyrosyn compass, as well as a true airspeed indicator, a device with which few Air Force planes are provided. The aircraft is equipped with seven LORAN sets, four radio compasses and four radar altimeters. altimeters.

Seven plexi-glass astrodomes line the ceiling of the fuselage, with high adjustable seats for the navigation student while taking celestial shots. There is an oxygen outlet at each astrodome and at each student table.

The Air Force announced today that it is suspending new enlistments under the Aviation Career Plan in order to offer technical training to all airmen on a competitive basis.

Under the career plan an applicant could request specific training and his enlistment would be contingent upon the availability of this training to him.

The Air Force said suspension of the career enlistment plan was necessary because its propularity provided such pure.

career enlistment plan was necessary be-cause its popularity provided such num-bers of applicants that quotas in the technical fields were filled far in advance, thus limiting the guarantees that could be made to high school graduates and other applicants desiring to make a career of the service.

Henceforth, the Air Force explained, all applicants will have equal opportunity in applying for technical training after entering the service.

Warns of Jet Dangers

The Air Force this week warned personnel of the dangers created by the tre-mendous suction force of jet aircraft en-

'Owing to the size and location of the intake duct in certain aircraft," the Air Force said, "even a person, when in close proximity, may be forcibly 'sucked' into the duct and against a protective screen with sufficient force of impact to cause injury or death."

Cited as a further danger was the fact that it is possible for a person, uninjured by such an impact, to be held against a protective screen by suction and to suffocate in the surrounding low pressure atmosphere.

AF Housing Shortage

As a result of the critical housing shortage at Pacific air bases, personnel have been warned to expect considerable delays before their families will be able to join them

It was reported that waiting schedules To was reported that waiting schedules have been set up about as follows: Field Grade officers, 1 to 10 months delay; Company Grade officers, 1 to 12 months; Non-Commissioned officers of the first three grades, one to 17 months.

AF Instrument Flying

Anxious that its pilots maintain high proficiency in instrument flying, the Air Force has published a revised version of AFR No. 60-4, which says that pilots will be encouraged to engage in instrument flight under weather instrument condi-

At each base, an officer will be designated as "officer in charge of instrument flying." He will be responsible for all instrument flying training.

Acting C of S, Eighth Air Force

Lt. Col. John A. Roberts, jr., has been appointed Acting Chief of Staff, Eighth Air Force, it was announced at Ft. Worth, Tex., by Maj. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, the Eighth's commander. Colonel Roberts succeeds Brig. Gen. Robert W. Burns, who left for Barksdale AFB, La., to be Deputy Commander of the Air Training Command. Lt. Col. Roberts' dual position is also that of Eighth AF Comptroller.

Gen. Quesada Heads AF Reserve

The Air Force has named Lt. Gen. Elwood Quesada, Commanding General of the Tactical Air Command, to direct the Air Force Reserve Program. Maj. Gen. Robert M. Lee, deputy TAC commander, will become acting commander. General Quesada's assignment resulted from President Truman's mid-October order that a ranking officer be assigned to head the Reserve program for each of the Armed Services.

In accepting the portrait Secretary Symington said:

"On behalf of the United States Air Force, I accept with great pride, as an American, the portrait of your son, Meyer, who gave his life for his country in battle. We have reserved a place for it in our 'Hall of Fame' where there now hangs portraits of other distinguished flyers of our Air Force. There, to the hundreds of men and women, military and civilian, Army, Navy, and Air, who will pass it every day in the corridors of our National Defense Building, it will serve as a perpetual reminder of the devotion to duty and the heroic sacrifice of your son, Meyer."

Uphold Meyers' Conviction

The U.S. Court of Appeals this week pheld the conviction of Bennett E. Meyers, former Air Force major general, now serving a term of 20 months to five years in the District of Columbia jail for subornation of perjury. His conviction was upheld by a two-to-one vote.

Gen. Stratemeyer Speaks

Speaking at the Armistice Day dedication of the Montauk War Memorial at the Montauk, L. I., N. Y., Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, USAF, Commanding General of the Air Defense Command, said this week that "modern speed and modern weapons make unified military action possible and necessary."

"We owe a duty to those we honor weapons and the second second action possible and necessary.

"We owe a duty to those we honor today to make a solemn pledge that it will never again be necessary for our American youth to lay down their lives to the processing of the proce American youth to lay down their lives to preserve our democracy," General Stratemeyer said. "We can do this by being individually strong, strong spiritually and strong in our knowledge of our great country. We must understand the ideals and philosophy of our Declaration of Independence and our Constitution. We must be strong in our faith. The spiritual power of a nation is that nation's outstanding secret weapon As a spiritual power of a nation is that na-tion's outstanding secret weapon. As a nation, physically and morally strong, the stone and bronze plate which you, the people of Montauk, have dedicated today, can remain for all time as a true monument to a lasting peace."

"3. Designation of Air Force Candidates: Designation of the candidates for Air Force commissions will be determined by mutual agreement of the Departments concerned during the final year of the cadets and midshipmen, Applicants shall not be restricted to those physically qualified for and desirous of becoming fiying officers; insofar as Naval Academy applicants are concerned, cognisance shall be taken of the Navy's need for officers physically qualified for flying.

"4. Course of Instruction: No distinction will be made at either of the two Academies in the course of instruction of applicants for Air Force commissions, i.e., courses of instruction at West Point will apply uniformly to all cadets, and similarly, at Annapolis call midshipmen,

"5. Support to the Academies: The Air Force will be expected to contribute financial support to the budgets of the two Academies in proportion to the percentages of graduates who are assigned to the Air Force under the terms of this directive. The Air Force will be expected to contribute, within the same percentage limitations, such assistance as may be requested by the Departments concerned, in the provision of military personnel for staffs, faculty, and other overhead.

"9. Subsequent Directives: The percentages of the directive and the provision of military personnel for baffer the provision of military personnel ments concerned, in the provision of military personnel for staffs, faculty, and other overhead.

"6. Subsequent Directives: The percentage quotas indicated in paragraph 2 above, are not intended to indicate a precedent for subsequent directives on this subject. They apply to graduating classes of the current fiscal year. The commissioning of Naval Academy graduates in the Air Force by quota is an innovation, the success of which depends largely upon the wholehearted cooperation of the Services concerned. It is considered that the experience which is gained this year will have an important bearing on subsequent action in the premises."

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1948

"To cherish the memories of the World War is to transmit to posterity the idea of loyalty."—General of the Armies John J. Pershing, Armistice Day, 1928.

A SUB-COMMITTEE of the Senate has recommended substantial pay raises for members of the Cabinet, their principal assistants, and some 200 other civilian officers and top-level employees of the Government. The proposed increases in some cases reach 80 per cent and probably average in the neighborhood of 50 per cent. At the same time, former President Herbert Hoover announced that the Commission on Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government, of which he is chairman, has tentatively agreed to recommend substantial salary increases in the $5,000and above brackets. Unquestionably these increases are long overdue. The niggardly salaries paid by the Government have resulted in a high turnover of competent personnel and in increasing difficulty in securing qualified individuals for highly responsible positions. The selection of officials in many cases had to be restricted to persons of independent means who could afford to make the financial sacrifice involved in entering Government service. The report of the sub-committee indicates Congressional recognition of the urgent need for legislation to remedy this situation. It also may be regarded as indicating that Congress will likewise be favorably disposed toward the more moderate increase in the pay of the officers of the Armed Forces. Thousands of officers are remaining in the Services solely because of genuine, old-fashioned patriotism. Hundreds of our leading officers have declined lucrative offers of posts in civil life in order to remain with the colors. Many others have found it necessary to accept civilian employment in order to provide adequately for their families. Furthermore, it is becoming extremely difficult to interest highly qualified young men in a permanent military career when the financial inducements in civilian life are so much more attractive. In the very near future the Hook committee on pay revision will submit its report to the Secretary of Defense. Its recommendations for pay increases should provide the basis for favorable action by the Congress

THE recent reorganization of the Army has two specific purposes—an increase in efficiency and the prompt dispatch of business. It is intended to relieve the The efficiency and the prompt dispatch of business. It is intended to reneve the Chief of Staff of many administrative and planning details, and to permit him to devote more time to field inspections and to major problems of a critical nature. The Vice Chief of Staff and two Deputies will assume many of the duties connected with administration and with strategic and logistical planning. Direct supervision of the administrative and technical services is delegated to heads of two General Staff Divisions, the Director of Personnel and Administration and the Director of Personnel and Personnel Logistics. At the insistence of Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall, civilian control of procurement, storage and distribution of military supplies has been strengthened by placing responsibility for logistics directly under the Assistant Secretary of the Army. Whether the new organization will result in greater efficiency and smoother operation, will depend largely upon the manner in which the directive of the Secretary is carried out. Ever since the creation of the General Staff more than forty years ago there has been a growing tendency for it to assume greater power and authority. As originally conceived the General Staff was exclusively a planning agency. The bureaus were directly under the Secretary of War and not responsible to the General Staff. Nevertheless, the Congress soon found it necessary to curb the inclination of the General Staff to assume control of the technical and administrative services. The National Defense Act specifically prohibits the General Staff from acting as an operating agency. However, through the device of issuing orders in the name of the Secretary this prohibition has been largely nullified. The new organization, authorized under the war powers of the President, frankly assigns to the General Staff important operating duties. Presumably statutory authority for this change will be sought prior to the expiration of the War Powers Act. One danger inherent in the new organization is that the General Staff Divisions either will supersede the services they supervise, or duplicate in large measure the functions of these agencies. It is expected that the Secretary of the Army will closely supervise the new organization and take appropriate action to prevent empire-building within the General Staff, and to see that heads of the Technical Services are not buried as subordinates and have an opportunity to go directly to him or the Chief of Staff on any matter they regard as specially important.

FROM Argentia, Newfoundland, comes the startling news that eight new submarines theoretically sank or crippled a substantial number of Naval vessels, including the battleship Missouri, engaged in extensive North Atlantic maneuvers. The exercises included the invasion of Newfoundland, which was defended by the eight new submarines. Vice Adm. D. B. Duncan, in command of the maneuvers, said that this handful of undersea craft would have sunk, or at least seriously defeated, the task force in actual combat. This type of submarine, equipped with the snorkel or breathing device, was developed by the Germans late in the war at a base now in Soviet hands. Utilizing experienced German technicians the Russians have concentrated on submarine construction and are said to possess more than 200 of this type of craft. In the science of warfare there is a constant race to balance offensive power with effective defensive measures. Often, as at present, weapons of offense are in the ascendancy and the technicians are hard pressed to restore the balance. Toward this end our Navy is designing and building new "killer" type vessels, "antisubmarine submarines," special antisubmarine aircraft groups, and highly technical and secret electronic and other devices for locating and destroying enemy submarines. At the same time the Navy, as shown in the present exercises, is pressing vigorously the development, and construction is expensive, but there should be no hesitation by the administration or Congress in providing all the funds necessary.

Carried Away

Three young men were sitting in a rail-Three young men were sitting in a rail-way station waiting for a train. They be-came so deeply ingrossed in conversation that they failed to notice when the train arrived. In fact, not until it was pulling out did they see it. At that, all three sprinted with great diligence, and two of them caught the train.

sprinted with great diligence, and two of them caught the train.

The third was standing dejectedly on the platform when a bystander said, "Why look so sad: Two out of three made the train. That's a pretty good average."

"Yes, I know," sighed the youth, "but I'm the one that was drafted. They just came down to see me off."

Our outfit was fortunate in having a sergeant who couldn't do enough for his men. In fact, he even went so far as to pass out cognac to the men before they went out on patrol duty.

On one particularly bad night he doubled the portion of cognac. This went over well with the men, especially the corporal, who was fond of any alcoholic drink.

That was the night the corporal dis-That was the night the corporal discovered the enemy trying to infiltrate our ranks. He shot it out with a squad of Germans, killing three and capturing the rest. He, in turn, got a slug in the leg. He was awarded the Silver Star and Purple Heart.

The plan for reorganization of the The plan for reorganization of the Federal Government under which the War and Navy Departments will be consolidated is threatened with opposition from a new source every day. Some one has asked what will become of the Marine Corps in the event of the consolidation. From some source the answers come that the Marine Corps will be absorbed by the Army.

50 Years Ago

Among the measures of importance to the Army, which will be brought before Congress, is the old one of giving military attaches in foreign countries suitable rank. We have been in the habit of sending first lieutenants to perform duties to which other nations assign officers of high rank, and it has been impossible to avoid serious and humiliating embarrassments under the rules of precedence and etiquette which govern all courts.

The English are evidently getting very uneasy on the subject of Russian encroachments in Central Asia. There is danger to their Eastern empire, from the advance toward the Indian frontiers of the all-sheyphing Muscovites. the all-absorbing Muscovites.

Foreign Affairs-The most serious aspect of the current foreign situation is the Chinese crisis, which threatens the early collapse of the government of Chiang Kai-shek, Communist troops having overrun all of Manchuria have now passed through the Great Wall and, advancing into North China, are engaged in a major battle with Nationalist forces. Railroad workers in some sections of China have walked out, demanding that they be paid in rice, rather than in paper money. Inhabitants of a number of northern cities are in a state of near-panic, with food riots in Shanghai, Hankow and Nanking.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is outwardly calm. He has refused to accept the resignation of his chief of cabinet and has told the people to gird themselves for an eight-year war against Communism. Aid from America is desperately sought by Chinese leaders, but it is questionable if it could reach the Orient in time to meet the immediate need. One estimate of requirements totals nearly a billion dollars, with $500,000,000 for military supplies, and $400,000,000 for emergency relief. Dependents of American military and civilian personnel are being evacuated from North China to Tsingtao and other ports, whence they will return to the United States.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall will soon return from Paris for a conference with the President. It is safe to assume that the Chinese situation will be given first priority among the topics discussed. A Communist victory in China would be a severe blow to American interests in the Orient. Whether or not any aid we could now render Chiang could bolster his regime sufficiently to make possible an effective stand against the Red advance is problematical.

In Moscow the Soviet government observed the anniversary of the Red revolution with the usual display of military might. Placards and signs attacking the western powers, so apparent last year, were not in evidence this year. In the absence of vacationing Marshal Joseph Stalin, Marshal Semyon Timoshenko, from atop Lenin's tomb, made a fiery address, characterized by the familiar Red attack on western warmongers. He stated, however, that the imperialists would be unsuccessful in trying to promote war, since the people of the world wanted peace. He counselled the mainte-nance of Soviet military strength as a means of preserving peace.

Soviet newspapers gave wide publicity to a Tass dispatch from Washington which quoted an American newspaper as saying that President Truman might go to Moscow for a conference with Marshal Stalin. The only basis for the report appears to have been the speculation of a columnist on this possibility. Official circles immediately announced that the President has no intention of going to Moscow.

At Paris United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie initiated an investigation of the Berlin currency problem. This led to reports that he planned to propose a settlement of the difficulties of the western powers with the Soviet Union which might lead to a lifting of the Russian hunger blockade of much of Berlin. However, he denied any intention of any immediate action along these lines, though a com-promise proposal was regarded as a likely result of his interest in the situation. The Russians have tightened their Berlin traffic restrictions by establishing road blocks on highways leading to the western sectors. In his October report General Lucius D. Clay said the Soviet blockade had adversely affected industrial production and had thrown thousands out of work. The airlift has been able to feed the people and provide ome coal for domestic cooking and heating, but has not been able to supply industry with fuel and raw materials, except on a very limited scale.

Soviet authorities in Berlin officially notified the Americans and British that airlift planes which fly outside the 20-mile wide corridor will be forced down. This threat drew prompt replies from the western powers that Russia would be held to strict accountability for any injuries to crews or damages to planes as a result of any such action.

The Political Committee of the General Assembly of the United Nations, with the Russian bloc in violent opposition, condemned Bulgaria, Jugoslavia and Albatila for aiding the Communist rebels in Greece. The vote was 48 to 6. In the Security Council Mediator Raiph J. Bunche triged that the ineffective Palestine truce be replaced by an armistice. Brig. Gen. William E. Riley, United States Marine Corps, who is the senior United Nations military observer in Palestine, is reported to have bluntly told the Arabs that their situation was untenable and advised them to seek peace terms from the Jews. This report has been denied, and it is asserted that General Riley confined his remarks to an outline of the military situation without proffering any advice. According to rumors which persist in the face of official denial peace parleys between the opposing forces are now in progress.

The Rally of the French People, the party of General Charles De Gaulle, won an important victory last Sunday in the election of members of the National Council. General De Gaulle and affiliated parties secured more than 100 seats, about forty per cent of those thus far chosen. The Communists won only 16 places. The Council is of small importance in the French parliamentary system, but the De Gaulle success is indicative of a marked swing of French sentiment to the right. It forecasts heavy De Gaulle gains in the French Assembly should there be a general election in the near future. The Queuille government appears to have succeeded in breaking the Communist-led coal strike in France. More than 50 per cent of the miners are back at work and efforts to promote sympathetic strikes among railroad workers and other unionists have largely failed.

A group of American Army, Navy and Air officers led by General Clay, met in Germany with Marshal Bernard Montgomery of Great Britain and military representatives of France and Belgium to discuss the defense of western Europe. It is understood that the discussions were along general lines without commitments. United States military supplies in Europe valued at $5,000,000 have been turned over to the French army for use in connection with its current rearmament program

Defense Secretary James Forrestal is now in Europe for conferences with Secretary Marshall, Ambassador W. Averill Harriman, General Clay and others relative to current military problems. It is understood that these conferences relate to budgetary requirements for the coming year, particularly those pertaining to the mainten-ance of the Berlin air lift and possible military aid in the rearmament of countries of western Europe.

Antiaircraft Publications—Founded in 1892 and called the Journal of the United States Artillery until 1922, the Coast Artillery Journal has been renamed the Antiaircraft Journal. However, the name of the Coast Artillery Association has not been changed. Announcing the new name, editors of the 56 year old publication said: "This change by no means implies lack of interest on the part of the Asaid: "This change by no means implies lack of interest on the part of the Association in Seacoast Artillery matters. It is merely a change of emphasis. Seacoast coast Artillery activities will be accorded the attention they deserve as long as this mission continues to exist, and as long as Association members have an in-

Medical Corps—Maj. Gen. Edward A. Noyes, formerly Chief Surgeon of the European Theater, is slated to assume command of the Brooke Army Medical Center, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., next week, relieving Maj. Gen. John M. Willis, who will retire after 37 years of service. General Willis is slated to become superintendent of Hamot Hospital at Erie, Pa.

Improved Flag—Following exhaustive tests, the Quartermaster Corps has determined that flags manufactured from blended nylon and wool last at least three times as long as standard all-wool flags. The improved flag fabric consists of 75 per cent cut staple nylon and 25 per cent wool.

Women's Army Corps-Women between the ages of 19 and 28 years may apply for enlistment in the Army specifically to attend the six-month WAC Officer Candidate School at Camp Lee, Va. Successful graduates will serve at least two years on active duty. These officers may be placed on competitive tours for one year for possible appointment in the Regular Army. Applicants must be single and have completed two years' accredited college education.

The Army announced also that former members of the WAC may apply for enlistment in the Regular Army in grade on or before 4 Jan. 1949. Former enlisted women honorably discharged from the WAC subsequent to 12 May 1945, who apply for enlistment before the deadline, may receive the grade held at the time of this

Medical Dept. Career Fields—A pointed indication that enlisted personnel of the Medical Department will receive increased prestige under the Army Career Program is revealed by Maj. Stephen J. Beaudry, MSC, Chief, Schools and Units Branch, Education and Training Division, Office of the Surgeon General.

Writing in an official Army publication, Major Beaudry said of medical technicians: "So outstanding was the performance of these unarmed soldiers during World War II that the Medical Department now is completing revised promotion and pay schedules, to assure even greater recognition of their service."

Army officials told the Army and Navy Journal, however, that differences of opinion concerning several Medical career fields, particularly those of the Medical Field Technician and Operating Room Technician are delaying completion of the Career Program for the Medical Care and Treatment Field.

But it is emphasized that when the Career Program for Army medics is finally announced, enlisted personnel will be rewarded with a significant upgrading in key positions

Possible Cabinet Changes-The election of President Truman has occasioned considerable speculation as to possible changes in the Cabinet. Those of principal interest to the Services pertain to the Secretary of State and the Secretary of Defense, and also, of course, to the heads of the departments of the National Military Establishment. It is believed that the President is hopeful of inducing Secretary of State George C. Marshall to remain in office at least until there is a lessening of the tense foreign situation. However, it is known that Secretary Marshall is desirous of retiring from Government service as soon as possible. Among those n tioned as his successor are Chief Justice Fred Vinson, former Under Secretary Dean Acheson, Ambassador W. Averill Harriman, John J. McClcy, former Assistant Secretary of War, and Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas. A popular selection would be General of the Army Dwight D. Elsenhower, now president of Columbia University, but it is doubtful that General Eisenhower would desire the post except in a grave emergency, when he would accept the appointment as a patriotic duty.

emergency, when he would accept the appointment as a patriotic duty.

Among those mentioned for Secretary of Defense, should Secretary James Forrestal resign, are Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall, former Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson, Governor Men Wallgren of Washington and Secretary of the Interior Krug. Both Secretary Royall and Mr. Johnson were active in
Mr. Truman's election campaign and Governor Wallgren is a close personal friend of the President. The suggestion of Secretary Krug for the defense post stems from the speculation that the President may wish to name Governor Wallgren as Sevretary of the Interior, which would be vacated by advancing Mr. Krug. There seems retary of the Interior, which would be vacated by advancing Mr. Krug. There seems little Micelihood of any changes in the beads of the Army, Navy or Air Force Departments, with the possible exception of the Secretary of the Army which would become vacant if Mr. Royall were elevated to be Secretary of Defense.

Navy Nurse Corps—The following newly appointed nurses have been selected to report for indoctrination at the Naval Hospitals at Chelsea, Mass., and Long Beach, Calif. To Chelsea, Mass.: Martha V. Chisholm, Alice L. Davis, Janet F. Dixon, Sara J. Ezell, Genevieve M. Rizzo, and Jean E. Tolbert. To Long Beach, Calif.: Patricia C. Bowers, Marionne L. de Moulin, Barbara E. Hulf, Genevieve M. Kesner, Lois E. Mattil, Arvice E. Moses, and Virginia C. Trujillo.

Navy Dental Corps—Rear Adm. Alfred W. Chandler, General Lespector, Dental Service, left Washington by air last week to make a survey of conditions in Naval dental activities in the European-African Area. Admiral Chandler is scheduled to visit Port Lyautey, French Morocco; Cairo, Egypt; Athens, Greece; Bremerhaven, Germany; and London, England.

As part of the Dental Corps Postgraduate Training Program, Lt. John R. Wible has been authorized to attend a short course in Periodontics at the University of Pennsylvania commencing 15 Nov. Condr. James L. Bradley has been assigned to the thirty days observership on the Head and Neck Service of New York Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases for the mouth of November. Comdr. Jam's J. Dempsey completed the Memorial Hospital observership last month. Commander Frank E. Frates and William D. King, both on the staff of the U. S. Naval Dental School, are attending the course in specialized warfare given by the Army Chemical Center, Edgewood, Md., from 8 to 20 Nov.

Veterinary Corps—Col. Wayne O. Kester of the Veterinary Division, Surgeon General's Office, and Col. James F. Noonan, Army Veterinarian, First Army, represented the United States Army and acted as official veterinarians at the National Horse Show held at Madison Square Garden, New York City, 2-6 New.

The following Veterinary Reserve officers have recently be m placed on active duty and assigned to stations indicated:

lished in the near future, at least insofar as military personnel are concerned.

An NME spokesman said that Secretary Forrestal has entertained informal discussions concerning a Personnel Policy Board, creation of which has been urged mainly by civilian officials. But there is at the present time no plan to activate the board, which according to its proponents would act somewhat like the Munitions Board in standardizing policies among the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Army Chaplains Corps—Reopening of the historic St. Ann's church in Heidelberg, now used as a U. S. Army Catholic chapel, was marked by a solemn pontifical benediction 31 Oct. Rehabilitation of the 17th Century edifice on Ploeck Str. was started by Capt. James F. Hayes, former Heidelberg Chaplain now on duty at the 97th General Hospital, Frankfurt, and carried on by Capt. William K. Graw, Military Post Chaplain. Brig. Gen. Phillip E. Gallagher, former Heidelberg Post Commander, and now EUCOM Director of Posts, interested a former U. S. Military Academy associate, Maj. Gen. Francis B. Wilby (USA-Ret.) of Geneva, N. Y., in the project of repairing the church; funds for completing the repairs were contributed by residents of Geneva, N. Y., including Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Lynch, Rev. William H. McFadden, Rev. Elward K. Ball, James M. Ryan, William J. Brennan, Thomas K. Faby, James F. Hobbins and General Wilby. The chapel has been so decorated as to return it to its original baroque architectural character. The walls have been repainted and old French-style paintings and statuary have been restored.

Chaplain (Brig. Gen.) James H. O'Neill, Deputy Chief of Chaplains, Acting Chief of Chaplains of the Army, represented the Chief of Chaplains at the unveiling of the tablet placed in the building of the Chaplains' Commission on 3 Nov. in memory of the 134 Protestant chaplains who died in the two World Wars.

Signal Corps—A vast, new EUCOM Signal Corps communication center for interzonal and international radio-telegraph, radio-telephone and radio-teletype circuits, linking U. S. Government agencies in EUCOM with every major center in Europe and in the United States, is near completion at Edingen, near Mannheim. The new communication center meets the demands of EUCOM for a powerful transmitter and nunication center meets the demands of EUCOM for a powerful transmitter and receiver station, capable of handling heavy traffic without interference and disturbances. Circuits are available for radio-teletype to Washington, Berlin, Frankfurt, Athens, Trieste and Vienna. One of the circuits to Washington, using only one radio frequency, is capable of operating six radio-teletype channels simultaneously, each sending at a speed of 60 words per minute. This high-powered equipment is used for teletype conferences between Europe communication centers and Washington and is available to all U. S. Government agencies in EUCOM. In addition, it has a voice channel which may also be used for transmission of pictures, mans and other visual channel which may also be used for transmission of pictures, maps and other visual material to the U. S. The Signal Division, EUCOM, under the direction of Maj. Gen. J. V. Matejka, Chief Signal Officer, EUCOM, is responsible for the engineering and operation of the vast communication center.

Maj. Gen. S. B. Akin, Chief Signal Officer, has reported that the Army's radio station in the Pentagon, K4USA, has resumed direct contact with amateur operators. The Army feels that the "hams" provide a valuable reserve of skilled personnel and should be encouraged. K4USA will operate daily on the 3.5, 7., 14 and 28 megacycle bands and will contact as many amateurs as possible throughout the world. Transmissions on 14 and 28 megacycles will be by means of a Signal Corps BC610E transmitter installed in the Pentagon and using a dual 10 and 20 meter, three-element rotary beam antenna. Transmitters for the 40 and 80 meter bands are operated remotely from the Pentagon and are located at the transmitting stations of WAR at Pattern Corps and Fig. Man. Battery Cove and Ft. Myer, Va.

Chemical Corps—Two officers have recently returned to extended active duty as members of the Staff and Faculty of the Chemical Corps School, Army Chemical Centre, Md. They are: Capt. Harold W. Wheeler, Cm1C, formerly Assistant Professor of Chemistry at John Fletcher College, University Park, Iowa, and Capt. Sterling R. Horton, Cm1C, of Littleton, Colorado, where he was engaged in Sales Promotion and Advantished.

Quartermaster Corps—Lt. Col. Arnold C. Gilliam has been relieved from Chicago QM Depot, Chicago, as chief of General Supply Division and is assigned to the 2d Infantry Division, Ft. Lewis, Wash., effective 7 Dec.

Col. William W. Brier has been relieved from Hq. and Hq. Sq., Air Proving Ground, Eglin Air Force Base, Valparaiso, Fla., and assigned to First Army, Ft. Dix, effective 9 Nov.

The foreign service tour of Lt. Col. Edward F. Stanford-Blunden has been extended until May 1949. Colonel Stanford-Blunden was commander of AGRS activities from February 1946 to March 1948 in the India-Burma Zone.

WACS and the Soldiers' Home—While Army officials this week studied the possibility of seeking legislative relief, enlisted personnel of the Women's Army Corps are being forced to contribute each month to the support of the U.S. Soldiers' Home.

This despite the fact that there are no facilities at the Soldiers' Home for women residents.

But because the law prescribes that the deductions must be made from all enlisted personnel of the Army, Finance Department officers have no choice but to assess the enlisted WACs 10 cents each month for the maintenance of the home to which they can never go.

The obvious inequity of this law would seem to indicate that the Army will seek necessary authority to cease collecting these assessments from women enlisted per-

Whether arrangements will be made to refund money already paid by WAC personnel could not be ascertained this week.

Army Institute of Pathology—Dr. Hans F. Smetana, Chief Pathologist, Army Institute of Pathology, attended the meeting of the Washington Pathologic Society, in Bethesda, Md., 6 Nov., and the meeting of the Research and Development Train-

Sing Group of the Medical Department Officers Reserve Corps, in the Pentagon, 8 Nov. On 3 Nov., Lt. Col. Joseph L. Bernier, Chief of the Section on Dental and Oral Pathology, Army Institute of Pathology, was elected Secretary for the Washington Section of the International Association for Dental Research, Colonel Bernier will depart for Chicago, Ill., 16 Nov., where he will lecture in the Post Graduate School of the University of Illinois College of Dentistry. He will speak on "Cancer Detection."

November 13, 1948

National Guard Unit Funds—Maj. Gen. Kenneth F. Cramer has announced that approximately $11,000 in enlisted men's unit funds has been authorized for distribution to National Guard units in 14 States. "This brings to approximately $770,000 the amount of unit funds authorized for distribution in 43 States, the District of Columbia and Hawaii," General Cramer said.

The funds are part of approximately $1,000,000 accumulated by National Guard units during the war from the operation of post exchanges, theaters, and similar projects, which were turned over to the Department of the Army on demobilization and subsequently returned to the Adjutants General of the several States pending decision on method of distribution.

State Adjutants General—Election returns which resulted in the unseating of numerous governors will mean that there will be changes in the adjutants general of some States. But because State laws vary concerning the length of service of adjutants general, no definite knowledge could be obtained this week as to the exact number of key National Guard officers who will be replaced.

Insofar as tactical commands are concerned, officials expressed belief that hardly any changes would be made. It is accepted that the Adjutant General is a strictly political appointment except where State law insures his length of service; but governors are reluctant to change tactical commanders on purely political grounds.

Army Dental Corps.—To bolster the strength of its Dental Corps, seriously undermanned, the Army this week announced a plan by which 300 senior dental students will receive commissions as second lieutenants in the Medical Service Corps Reserve with full pay and allowances

The students will be permitted to continue their studies as officers on active duty until they complete academic requirements for a Doctor of Dental Surgery degree or until completion of the academic year in which they enrolled.

Immediately following this schooling, students will apply for appointments as first lieutenants in the Dental Corps Reserve and may be offered appointments in the same grade in the Regular Army. They will be required to serve not less than two years on active duty.

Army Field Forces—General Jacob L. Devers, Chief, Army Field Forces, was in Washington, DC, on 9 Nov. to attend a meeting of the Research and Development Board. On 11 Nov., General Devers addressed the members of the Hampton Rotary Club, at the Hotel Chamberlin, Old Point Comfort, Va.

Col. Vance Batchelor, Assistant Chief for Intelligence, was at Camp Holabird,

Maryland, 8 Nov., for a conference with the commanding general of the Counter Intel-

Col. Dana G. McBride, Developments Section, attended a conference at the Signal Corps Engineering Laboratories, Fort Monmouth, N. J., 3-6 Nov.
Col. Donald C. Hall, Intelligence Section, was in Washington, D. C., on 4 and 5 Nov., for visits with the Office of the Director of Organization & Training and the Office of Chief of Intelligence.

Office of Chief of Intelligence.

Lt. Col. James W. Bender, Logistics Section, attended a conference on clothing and equipment in Logistics Division, Washington, D. C., on 10 Nov.

Lt. Col. Raymond H. Bates, Developments Section, left Fort Monroe on 7 Nov. for Washington, D. C., to attend a meeting of a panel of the Research & Development Board. From Washington, he proceeded to Fort Monmouth, where he attended a conference on meteorology. He returned on 11 Nov.

Maj. Clayton A. Bird, Engineer Section, left Ft. Monroe on 2 Nov., for the Yuma Test Branch, Yuma, Ariz., to witness demenstrations of new types of military bridges.

Finance Department—Col. William P. Campbell, Chief of Army Audit Agency, Washington, D. C., visited regional offices of the Agency in Atlanta, Ga., and Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, recently regarding auditing and organizational matters.

Col. Emmett J. Bean, Assistant Chief of Finance and Commanding Officer of the Army Finance Center, announces the creation of the Management Division at his installation in St. Louis, Mo. In his capacity as Executive Officer of the Army Finance Center, Lt. Col. Leonard B. Taylor will oversee the new Division which is composed of the following branches: Civilian Personnel, Legal, Planning and Research, and the newly activated Military Personnel. The functions, personnel, equipment and records of the Military Personnel Section. Fiscal Section and Security and Safety the newly activated Military Personnel. The functions, personnel, equipment and records of the Military Personnel Section, I'lscal Section and Security and Safety Office were transferred to the new Military Personnel Branch—headed by Maj. Howard G. Ledgerwood. In addition to being Chief of Military Personnel Branch, Major Ledgerwood is Adjutant of the Army Finance Center.

Transportation Corps—Maj. Gen. James A. Lester, Commanding General, San Francisco Port of Embarkation, has been visiting OCT during the past week. He has discussed operational and administrative matters with the Chief of Transportation and his staff and has become acquainted with the personnel in OCT. Prior to his arrival in OCT, General Lester visited the New York Port of Embarkation where he discussed with the Port Commander and his staff, matters of interest to the functioning and administration of both ports. The trip, which has lasted about two weeks, was the first since General Lester took command of the Port 26 Aug., immediately after arriving from Yokohama where he had been Chief of Staff of Eighth

Staff members of the 77th Reserve Division conferred with Camp Kilmer officials this week on plans for military exercises to be staged there early in December. Between 500 and 600 Reserve officers from the New York Area will participate according to information released by Maj. William J. Stokes, Chief of the Control and Training Division at Kilmer. Present at Kilmer to arrange details of the exercises were: Col. Robert I. Powell, Division G-3 of the Reserve group; Lt. Col. M. F. Rockel, Unit Instructor; and Col. Joseph H. Wright, Chief of Staff of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery—Capt. Glenn S. Campbell, MC, USN (Ret.), of Alhambra, Calif., has voluntarily requested recall to active duty to assist in relieving the present shortage of medical officers. Captain Campbell will be assigned to the Naval Hospital, Long Beach, Calif., for duty.

Lt. Comdr. Leo S. Madlem, fr., has recently transferred from active Reserve status to the Medical Corps of the Regular Navy. He is now on duty at the Naval Hospital, San Diego. Lt. (jg) George M. Stevens, MCR, USNR, of Angleton, Tex., has reported to the Naval Hospital, Portsmouth, Va., for his first active duty.

Army and Navy Journal November 13, 1948

THE annual birthday party of the Ma-rine Corps, this year the 173d anni-versary, was celebrated in Washington 10 Nov. by a dance at the Shoreham, the auspicious moment of the event being the cutting of the mammoth three-tiered birthday cake by the Commandant of the Corps, General Clifton B. Cates.

As when these birthday anniversaries were held in the great hall at the Marine Barracks, a pageant was presented de-picting the history of the famous corps rom its incorporation in 1775 by the Continental Congress in Philadelphia to "Tell it to the Marines" was more than a slogan, but many did just that in felicia slogan, but many did just that in felicitations, as a company gathered at the quarters of Gen. and Mrs. Clifton B. Cates at the Barracks for a dinner party at which were present the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Sullivan, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Mark Andrews, General A. A. Vandegrift, former Commandant of the Corps, and Mrs. Vandegrift, up from their home in Lynchburg; also Vice Admiral and Mrs. Harry Hill, Maj. Gen. Louis McC. Little, Ret.; Mrs. George Barnett, once chatelaine of these quarters, when the late General Barnett was Commandant of the Corps.

Also present were Mrs. A. W. Radford, wife of Vice Admiral Radford—out of town for the nonce; also Brig. Gen. Rob Blake, inspector general of the corps; and Lt. C. B. Cates, jr., instructor at the Naval Academy.

At Quantico there was also a dance, Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, commander of Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, commander of the Marine Corps School and Mrs. Shep-herd observing the occasion and he cut-ting a huge birthday cake. Some of those invited to this party were Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Dudley Brown, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Lewis R. Jones, Col. and Mrs. C. C. Jerome, and Col. and Mrs. Russell Hon-sowerz. sowetz.

"UNITED STATES AT WAR"

* A limited number of copies of the Army and Navy Journal's historic volumes, "United States At War" is still available. This series, the first volume of which was published 7 December 1942 with succeeding volumes each year until the War's end, forms a complete history of World War II in authoritative articles written by Military, Naval and civilian leaders actually in charge of the operations in the active theater and at home. Profusely illustrated they merit a place in every well balanced library.

A small number of each of the volumes is ready for distribution at $3.00 per copy in paper binding and $5.00 in cloth binding. (Copies of Volume I are available only in paper binding.)

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Ivan G. Martin, USA-Ret.
Chaplain Ivan G. Martin, a Regular Army chaplain for 25 years, finally attaining the rank of lieutenant colonel, died at his home, 333 E. Mission St., Santa Barbara, Calif., on Tuesday, 26 Oct.

Santa Barbara, Calif., on Tuesday, 26 Oct.

A native of Lancaster County, Pa., Chaplain Martin was a graduate of Princeton University in 1902 and of Princeton Theological Seminary in 1905. He had pastorates in the Presbyterian denomination until World War I, then becoming a chaplain and remaining in the Army until he reached the statutory age of retirement in 1942, during which he made a desirable reputation.

Duty assignments took him to Europe, Panama, Hawaii, and the eastern and southern States, completing his Army career at Fort Kamehameha, Hawaii, where he was on duty at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack. Chaplain Martin was a member of the Masonic Order, of the Princeton Club of Southern California, the Lions Club, and the American Legion Post 40, serving as chaplain of the latter until forced to resign by illness. He is survived by his wife and two children, by a brother, two sisters, and three grand-children.

The output of the steel mills of the United States for the current week is expected to reach the record total of 1,791,700 net tons, an amount 400 tons greater than the wartime peak of 1,791,300 tons reached during the week or 1,244 April 1944 Operations for this ending 24 April 1944. Operations for this week were scheduled at 99.4 per cent of rated capacity, compared with 98.5 per cent last week and 96.9 per cent for the corresponding week a year ago.

The high rate of steel production maintained throughout most of 1948 points to an indicated record annual production of automobiles. It has reached 4,438,00 units and is rising steadily. During November and December it is cted that one million vehicles will be pected that one million venicles will be added to the total. During the first ten months of 1948 the General Motors facmonths of 1948 the General Motors factories in the United States and Canada produced 1,807,835 cars and trucks, as compared with 1,557,347 during the corresponding period of last year. Materials have been flowing more steadily into motor plants and fairly substantial inventories have been maintained, which, in the absence of labor troubles, will assure a high volume of production. sure a high volume of production.

While disappointment at the surprising election results occasioned considerable stock market losses the indications continued to point to a favorable business outlook for at least two years.

A survey of their morale and their hopes for the future would reveal that great numbers would leave the Army if they could offset the time they have lost in getting started in civilian occupations, and could readjust themselves and their families to civilian life. The Pre-integration Regular Officers do not understand the logic behind this new proposal. They get little satisfaction out of the trite expression that these policies are directed by overall considerations, "the big picture." When they look about today, they get a hopeless sinking feeling when they picture themselves further subordinated (if the new proposal on rela-tive rank is adopted) to the great num-bers of officers who rate far below them in ability. They can appreciate the fact that neither public opinion nor pressure groups will ever rally behind them, if it is a choice between them and former it is a choice between them and former Reserve Officers. They further realize that even fair consideration of their posi-tion might result in political repercus-sion, and as a result the more popular action and the path of least resistance does not favor the Pre-integration Regu-lar Officer.

And yet we read of grandiose schemes on "career planning," that to the Regular Officer represents mere "piddling," because no amount of such planning can offset high level policies that set us back many years in our life's work. War is a great classifier. During World

Letters to the Editor

The Pre-integration Regular Army Officers have borne up with a minimum of lamentation under the policies that placed hundreds and thousands of less canable newly appointed Regular Officers far ahead of them on the Promotion List. This display of resignation to their fate is due primarily to the military training which has disciplined them to accept orders without complaint, and to the knowledge that "belly-aching" will not help the situation. But they are disheartened; they are discouraged; and they fully realize that it will take no less than a major war to offset the inequality in officers during WWI.

I feel we have been denied something that we have every right to expect—that of receiving the pay of our retired rank. Did we not serve honorably as officers during WWI? Many of us wear the Order of the Purple Heart, and not a few the Congressional Medal of Honor. We served to the fullest of our ability. When commissioned we were told that we were the "backbone" of the Army, and would be forever remembered for our ability to whip raw recruits into seasoned veterans in the shortest time possible; then take in the shortest time possible; then take these trained recruits into battle, and fi-nally win a war. Now we are rewarded by the magnificent salary of a warrant officer (jg) retired. Well—mayhaps that omcer (jg) retired. Well—mayhaps that is all we are worth to the writer of H.R. 2744; at least that is what they infer in the bill.

At this time I would like to thank the JOURNAL for its untiring efforts in plugging for the betterment to all arms of the service; for this we are ever grateful.

Master Sergeant, USA-Ret., Warrant Officer (For Pay) Captain-Betired.

Aid Reserves

The ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL:
The ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL has again helped to chalk up a victory for the Army and the Organized Reserves with the passage of HR 2744.

This legislation no doubt will not only raise the morale of all services, but will also serve as a step forward in making for a National Defense organization unequalled in strength in the history of our great nation. Now, I am sure, that mil-lions of citizens will join the reserves and take an active interest in military training—because their future, as well as National Security, will be assured.

It is true that the premiums are high, but the insurance is sound and I feel that

I, and I am sure tens of thousands of others salute the Arm'y and Navy Journal for its magnificent patriotic work, and we all wish it a successful continuation of its persistent campaign for a better National Defense for the security of our great republic.

"One of these is its specialization and preeminence in the field of amphibious warfare, the other is its tradition of readiness," General Silverthorn told a Minneapolis audience this week as the Corps celebrated its 173rd Birthday.

Another ranking Marine Corps officer, Maj. Gen. John T. Brig. Gen. Robert Blake, who addressed the Military Order of World Wars in Washington, D. A number of the general officers who made anniversary addresses emphasized the fact that of the 86,000 officers and men on duty in the Marine Corps today, duty almost two-thirds are assigned to the op-erating forces. This, some pointed out, makes the Marines "unexcelled for readi-

Gen. Eichelberger on Japan

Communization of Japan would signify the loss of World War II to the United Canada, Philippines, and Aus-Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, Pointing out that having demilitarized Japan, the United States must assume the obligation of defending her, the General added that he would not put any value upon our work in that defeated nation unless in time of danger we could rely upon our work in that defeated nation unless in time of danger we could rely upon her being at least a friendly neutral. General Eichelberger said:

"Let us look for a moment at present-day Japan, it consists of four main islands with a total size about equal to California. It is mostly mountainous and only 17% of the country is arable. It has eighty million people and that number is increasing rapidly day by day. From these millions have come brave, fanatical soldiers. Americans of Japanese descent made wonderful fighters while serving in our uniform in Italy. Except for this great manpower Japan is a pigmy country from a military standpoint, without tanks, Navy, air power, or most of the important raw materials.

"The strategic location is perhaps an unfortunate one in these days of crises when considered from the standpoint of our country, which has been largely responsible for the new constitution, which includes among its provisions renouncement of war. If we have disarmed Japan, limiting their present defense to a few police armed with pistols, then we have assumed the obligation of protecting them.

"It must be remembered that Russia, as a result of the allied victory in the Pacific, received as a reward the strategic as well then we have assumed the obligation of protecting them.

"It must be remembered that Russia, as a result of the allied victory in the Pacific, received as a reward the strategic as well as the geographical aspirations of 150 years. Except for a part of Korea, Communistic Countries control the Asiatic Mainland to the north and if Japan were to become Communistic and thereby be added to the chain of the Kurile Islands, the Japan Sea would become a Communistic lake. Russia today lies like a blanket over the top of Hokkaido, the north island of Japan. My old stamping grounds, Vialivostok, lies only about 400 miles to the west of the coast of Hokkaido, the southern coast of Sakhalin is merely across La Perouse Strait to the north, and the Kuriles, now under Communist domination, are so close on the east that one could cross in a rowboat. One can appreciate what a great prize Japan would be to the Communistic nations if they were permitted to gain possession. But to the United States, Canada, Philippines and Australia, it would signify the loss of World War II and a potential defeat in the Pacific in any future war that might be forced upon us.

"We have Introduced the framework of democracy into Japan. There have been the first free elections in their history. She is racy into Japan. There have been the first free elections in their history. She is no longer a police state with a nationalized people. There have been given to them many of the freedoms which we hold so dear—freedom of speech and freedom of the press, the right of assembly, the writ of habeas corpus, the right to pass a policeman without bowing. If we have seen fit to introduce these changes then we must overlook the past crueities of the Japanese Military Party and accept the Japanese as we now find them. crueities of the Japanese Military Party and accept the Japanese as we now find them. We must remember the wholehearted cooperation of the masses, from the Emperor to the farmer—and by the way, we could not have achieved the results gained in Japan without this convention.

"If Japan under its military domination "If Japan under its military domination was a vicious enemy, we must remember that it could become a powerful friend, I do not like to think of Japan as an ally in war, although that might well be possible. I would like rather to think that we have built up a great reservoir of friendship and respect through the prestige, fairness and generosity of our Country, which would act as a deterrent to those who entertain no desire to fight on two fronts.

"During my last year in Japan the welfare of my Country to me has obscured, perhaps, all other issues. Glad as I have been to see the inculcation of democratic ideals among the Japanese, I would not give that the slightest value unless in time of danger we could rely upon Japan being at least a friendly neutral."

Movement to Japan, Korea, China

The Army and Air Force in Circular 317 and AF Letter 75-40 have published new regulations relating to oversea movement of dependents and household goods to Japan, Korea and China.

The pertinent sections of the order fol- lows:

 1. Allowances for shipment of household goods to Japan, Korea, and China are limited as indicated below. For Army and Air Force military and civilian personnel authorized entry or ordered to China for duty with the Army Advisory Group, these limitations are effective with the approved list of dependents authorized the oversea movement to China during August 1948, or with travel orders issued or travel authorizations dated on or after 1 August 1948. For Army and Air Force military and civilian personnel authorized entry or ordered to Japan or Korea, they are effective with the approved list of dependents authorized movement to Japan or Korea during June 1947.

 a. Military personnel authorized to move
- a. Military personnel authorized to move dependents.—Twenty-five percent of net basic weight allowance or 2,000 pounds net weight, whichever is greater.
- b. Civilian employees authorized to transport dependents overseas at Government expense.—Maximum allowance of 3,125 pounds, regardless of grade.
- c. Army and Air Force military or civilian personnel who are not authorized the movement of dependents overseas, or who do not desire such movement.—These individuals will be limited to the hold and cabin baggage weight allowance authorized for permanent change of station, as follows:

General officers
Field grade officers
Company grade officers
Enlisted men Enlisted men

ments.

2. The restrictions in paragraph 1 do not apply to shipments of household goods from Japan, Korea, or China.

3. The restrictions in paragraph 1 on weight allowances do not preclude the shipment of professional books and privately owned automobiles by Army and Air Force civilian and military personnel when otherwise permissible, and the weight of such shipments is exclusive of the above allowances.

4. All persons concerned will be informed of the above allowances, and that the weights authorized are sufficient to accommodate all of the personal property necessary to insure their comfort while in Japan, Korea, or China. Shortages of rugs, beds, stoves, and refrigerators still exist, but the shipment of the latter two items is discouraged because of the difficulties encountered in the operational adjustment of American-made equipment to local facilities and in the procurement of replacement parts.

Memorial to Airmen

As additional contributions for the erection of a monument to the five American flyers shot down over Yugoslavia in 1946 were being recorded, the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL wishes to remind its readers of the patriotic project undertaken by the Hon. Arthur Bliss Lane, former U. S. Minister to that nation.

Contributions should be addressed to Mr. Lane at 2442 Massachusetts Avenue. Ranking Air Force officials are assisting in the memorial campaign.

LT. FELIX (DOC) BLANCHARD dropped in at West Point last week to pay a brief visit to his alma mater and various friends contained therein. By a strange coincidence, many of those friends were found in the vicinity of the football team.

Doc had a few words to say to the squad in conclave assembled, and al-though his brief Hollywood career gave no indication of hidden elecutionary talents, he was apparently inspirational enough to spur the boys on to a 43-0 win over Stanford. At least he obviously didn't slow them down any.

The game might have been more of a contest had not Emery Mitchell, Stanford's key back, suffered a wrenched knee on the kick-off play after West Point's first touchdown. Without him, the Indian rooters were forced to save their outbursts for such trivialities as five vard forward passes.

Army, meanwhile, had everything. In fact, a large part of the crowd thought they had a little too much. Every time Red Blaik shifted platoons in his system of wholesale substitutions Yankee Statements. dium rocked to a volume of booing usually employed only by its summer clientele. Those who were displeased should have remembered that Blaik is only doing what every other big time coach is doing, of would do if he had the material.

Particularly impressive was Army's passing. Perhaps it was Stanford's lack of pass defense that made Galiffa and his receivers look good, but be that as it m the aerial game clicked on Saturday.

The only sour note from Army's point of view was the loss of Dan Foldberg for the rest of the year with a broken collar bone. Dan, his brother's worthy successor at end, has been brilliant with the offensive unit all year.

Michigan downed Navy, 35-0, but for just about the first time this season there was a real moral victory for the Midshipmen. The Wolverines, with their eyes on the top slot in the nationwide Associated Press poll, whose leader is universally recognized as the best team in the country, tried their level best to score more points against the hapless Annapolitas than had Notre Dame the week before. All through the game they kept the pressure on, using first stringers right down to the end. It was obvious to the $5,000 present exactly what was goint on, and being a partisan crowd, they added their vocal bit. However, a tired Navy team, worn down by the two-unit system in vogue at Michigan as well as Arm, withstood onslaught after onslaught in the state of the state

withstood onslaught after onslaught is the final quarter and thwarted the Wei verines' bid for a clear cut No. 1 rank

Next Saturday is the traditional of week for both schools, preceding the ever more traditional Army-Navy game. In this day of intersectional schedules and high-powered football financial set-ups the more than refreshing to find on is more than refreshing to at is more than refreshing to and our game so important to the teams and six dent bodies concerned that the authorities forego sure sell-out crowds for tweek in order to insure both clubs being the control of the black for the at top shape for the big one.
